John S. D'Appolonia Resigns Mayoralty

Many Citizens Express Regret on Circumstances Prompting Resignation--No Action Yet by Council

Prominent citizens, interviewed on the resignation of the mayor, expressed the opinion it is a pity if the town loses his services. He was elected last February, by a substantial majority, and already he has rendered valuable service in his official capacity. He was spending the week-end at his Creston ranch when Italy's entry in the war was announced, and he immediately, with Mrs. D'Appolonia, left for Coleman, where, after consultation with a few friends, and having given the matter serious consideration, he handed to the council and the Press his letter of resignation.

What action will be taken by the council and ratepayers is yet to be determined, and though he did not wish to attend Tuesday's meeting of the council, where his letter was read, he was called from his home and asked to preside at the meeting, which he did.

The developments of the past week have placed him as well as other loyal citizens of Italian birth in an embarrassing position, but the ratepayers realize that they had no part whatever and had no sympathy with Italian war aims.

Councillor Angelo Gentile, Coleman's most enthusiastic baseball promoter, placed his resignation before the council on Tuesday. Action will not be taken, until local opinion has been sounded over the unfortunate development.

Mayor's Letter of Resignation

"To the Council and Ratepayers, Municipality of the Town of Coleman, Alberta.

Gentlemen:

"I feel that the present unfortunate circumstances under which the country of my birth has declared war against the country of my adoption makes it plain that I owe it both to myself and to the electorate to make a statement concerning my position as Mayor of the Town of Coleman. My friends do not require any explanation, and perhaps my enemies are not entitled to any; but nevertheless a statement of facts, if they cannot be helpful, can at least do no harm."

"I came to this country with my family when I was quite young, some thirty-five years ago, grew up, got married and raised my own family in the Town of Coleman, and by hard work have been able to educate myself and gain experience, to the point where I consider that I am both technically and practically a capable, and I think the townspeople will agree, an honest contractor."

"When the ratepayers did me the honor of electing me as mayor at the last mayoralty campaign, I had fully made up my mind to serve the town to the best of my ability, by giving them the benefit of any knowledge and experience that I may have gained, and I am still, of course, prepared to do so."

"I, along with a large percentage of Italians who have made their homes in Canada, very sincerely regret the international complications that have broken the many years friendship between Italy and Great Britain, as all they wished to do was to live their lives in peace and make themselves worthy citizens of the Dominion of Canada."

"Therefore, after careful consideration of all the facts, it is with my deepest and sincerest regrets to tender herewith my resignation as mayor of the Town of Coleman in order to prevent any unpleasantness developing in this community on account of Italy's Entry Into War Given as Reason; Council Fails to Accept Resignations.

Mayor John S. D'Appolonia and Councillor Angelo Gentile placed their resignations as civic officers upon the table at a regular meeting of the council on Tuesday evening. Mayor D'Appolonia was absent from the meeting, but upon the unanimous request of the council appeared later in the evening and gave a statement of his reasons for resigning. Councillor Gentile appeared at the start of the meeting.

Said Mr. D'Appolonia: "Peace and harmony were the foundation of progress, and he wanted above all to preserve that peace and harmony, hence his resignation. He would be ready at all times to help in any way he could to assist the council in the administration of civic affairs, as had been his practice in the past."

Council, lacking a full attendance, two members being absent, refused to accept the resignations. Councillor Antrobus paid tribute to Mr. D'Appolonia when he stated: "No man ever sat in the mayor's chair that possessed the ability of Mayor D'Appolonia."

Councillor Gentile stated he was in the same position as Mr. D'Appolonia, and asked that council accept his resignation.

Since Councillor Gentile's presence was needed to make up a quorum, he sat through the routine business transactions. Mayor D'Appolonia was prevailed upon to sit at the table and take part in council's discussions. This he did, but only occasionally spoke on matters pertaining to council business.

FESTIVAL COMMITTEE TO MEET

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Crows' Nest Pass Canadian Festival Committee will be held in the Greenhill hotel on Monday, June 17, at 8 p.m.--W. H. Stobbs, secretary.

NOW IN AUSTRALIA

From Steve Janoschak this week come photographs and postcards of Australian views. He also sent photos of aboriginal dancers, there are rather startling. He did not send any letters telling of his travels since leaving Coleman. The Journal appreciates his thoughtfulness in sending the pictures.

Attending the meeting in Edmonton of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Alberta is J. O. C. McDonald, D.D.G.M., and Robert F. Barnes, worshipful master of Sunnyside Lodge, from Coleman. Representing other lodges are G. E. Cruickshank and S. Douglas, Hillcrest, and W. H. Chapell, Blairmore.

as mayor, having been born in Italy.

To you, Councillors, I wish to thank you for the spirit of friendliness and goodwill which prevailed at all our meetings, and am pleased that our co-operation in which you have given me during my term of office as your Mayor, or will remain with me as one of my most cherished memories.

"Yours respectfully,

J. S. D'APPOLONIA."

WHAT MAKES ALBERTA

Toronto, June 10.—Greater use of Alberta coal was urged by E. A. McBain before the recent convention of the Canadian Retail Coal Association. "If properly controlled," said the speaker, "high-grade Alberta domestic coals will give at least equal heat value for your dollar, at present prices, as any anthracite." Mr. McBain told the retailers that if Ontario bought all of its domestic coal from Alberta, it would help employ 10,000 miners now idle half the year. "Ontario needs Alberta coal," he said, "for its own comfort and to conserve Canadian money."

Special Appeal to Anglicans to Pay Rectory Debt.

Heads of Families and Others Asked to Donate by Cash or Monthly Pledges to Wipe Out Indebtedness.

Last year, in order to make badly-needed improvements to St. Albans' rectory, a debt of over $900 was incurred. Only a small amount has been paid, and this week an offer was made by an anonymous donor that if the sum of $500 is raised, the outstanding balance will be paid. It is figured that if the sixty families enrolled as Anglican church members will contribute one dollar each for ten months the entire indebtedness will be paid. The rector, Rev. George Gentile, has parades with a form of pledge, and that it be signed and returned by June 20, in order to enable the church officers to take advantage of the generous contribution, which is conditional on being met this month.

Church members are therefore urged by the rector and the wardens to give this their immediate and serious attention, for by co-operating in this request, a load of debt will be removed, and its accomplishment should cause a feeling of pride.

Assessment Rates Set For Town And School

Town Rate 22 Mills; School 23 Mills; Same as in Previous Years; July 31 Deadline for Tax Payments.

At the regular meeting of the council on Tuesday evening assessment rates for both town and school were discussed. The assessed value of the town was found to be approximately $792,687. The town budget calls for an expenditure of $16,500. The 22 mills set will bring $17,439, but release of 10% for prompt payment of taxes is expected to absorb the extra thousand dollars.

Assessed value of the school district was found to be approximately $1,849,000. The amount required is $42,500. A mill rate of 23 mills was set to bring in this amount. School grant, etc., will be added to this amount and will go towards absorbing the amounts which will be naturally lost to the school district as a bonus in the 10% rebate on prompt payment of taxes. Tax rates are the same as previous years.

July 31 was set as the deadline for payment in full of all current taxes, town and school.

It is reported that steps are being taken by council to secure a detailed statement from the provincial government of the basis of assessment, and resolutions are being prepared concerning this to be placed before municipal convention, owing to complaints having been made in various places on the provincial government's assessment.

Will Speak At Meeting

Major J. S. D'Appolonia informed The Journal this afternoon that he will speak at the meeting on Friday, and also on behalf of the Italian people in Coleman.

Wake Up, Coleman!

Open Your Hearts--and Your Pocketbooks!

So far Coleman's contribution to Canada's war effort has been small--very small. Some of the small-fisted contributions to the Red Cross and other appeals demand that outspoken language be used in shaking up some people and telling them that it is time they realized that this war demands that they do something, and that is to do a whole lot more than they have so far. There are many young people in Coleman earning regular salaries, who are doing nothing either in war service work or in contributions. If the shoe pinches, well it might, for enormous sacrifices are being made overseas while we live in comfort and security—but which might not last if we do not rise to the seriousness of the situation and do our part.

As an instance of lack of response, the War Work committee of the Red Cross claims that they have very few workers—there is room for many more. Again, how many are purchasing War Savings Stamps and Certificates? Ask yourselves:

JUST WHAT ARE YOU DOING TO HELP?

Resolve to-day that you are going to give up something regularly and give it towards helping win the war. Everything else fades into insignificance in the crisis that this great British Empire—and Canada—faces.

This appeal is inserted by your local committee to arouse interest and financial support for War Appeals.

Dairies Must Pay $15 License to Operate Here

Regular meeting of the council was held on Tuesday evening. Present: Acting Deputy Mayor Antrobus, Councillors Ford, Gentile and Kerr.

The resignations of Mayor D'Appolonia and Councillor Gentile overshadowed the entire business session, and much business was left in abeyance.

Herb Sherratt, of the Red and White store, and Mr. Dancy, of the Provincial Treasury Branch, Blairmore, were present to ask council to agree to accept vouchers in payment of taxes. It seems Mr. Sherratt receives a large quantity of vouchers in payment of grocery bills. He in turn pays the Knights of Pythias lodge rent in vouchers. Since the lodge can't pay the town these vouchers for taxes, measures have been taken to petition council to accept vouchers in tax payments. Matter was left in abeyance until a full attendance of council.

Mr. Sagoff asked for loan of fire hose, with which to lead water from Second street up to the ball field. He was granted 700 feet.

A petition from service station and garage owners, asking council to pass a by-law governing various clauses drawn up by the owners in the garage and service station business, was heard and service station business, was voted.

Wm. McGrath asked council to pay rent for a house at present occupied by J. Kroesing and family in Beck's townsite. Council will investigate matter.

Thanks was expressed to council in a letter received from D. B. Menzies, provincial sanitary engineer, for council's permission to allow residents of East Coleman to use town's nuisance ground.

A petition was received from several residents on east Third street, asking for a light for the back alley and also a car parking space. A light was granted.

Mrs. John Denholm made application for town relief.

Andy Uzakov, of West Coleman, reported that his house, built in 1939, had sunken approximately six inches. He will be asked to attend the next regular meeting.

At the request of Coleman branch, Canadian Red Cross, the council decided to call a meeting of Coleman citizens on Friday, June 14, in the Miners' hall, at 7 p.m. Posters were

Fernie Takes 3-2 Decision From Pucksters

Martin Pitched Eleven Innings for Pucksters; Armstrong Winning Pitcher.

Coleman Pucksters lost their second straight game on Sunday, when they took the short end of a 3-2 score against Fernie in a league game at the local ball field. Fernie showed surprising strength, and were never behind at any time.

Taking a 2-0 lead, with runs in the second and fifth innings, Fernie seemed well on their way to victory. In the eighth, Price began to falter, and Coleman took quick advantage to score two runs through Brown and Sanderson. Armstrong was sent in for the visitors, and stemmed the uprising. Martin, for Coleman, was pitching a steady game, and continued in the bargain session of two extra innings. He weakened in the eleventh, Miscisco, of Fernie, getting around to bring home the winning run.

Said Garabaldi, liberator of Italy, in 1854: "If ever England should be in so circumscribed as to require the help of an ally, cursed be the Italian who would not step forward with me in her defense."—Cranbrook Courier.

authorized printed advertising the meeting.

A lot, valued at $200, was sold to Norman MacAulay.

By-law 153 was given its third reading. Henceforth, all dairies operating or peddling milk within the incorporated area of Coleman must pay a $15 license.

By-law 149 was given its third reading. It made possible the council appropriating $700 for improvements to the ball field.

Meeting adjourned at 11 p.m.

Important Notice To Parents

Parents having children who will be of school age in September must report to Mrs. M. Clifford at Central School on Friday of this week, June 14, giving proof of age.—Signed, D. Hoyle, Principal.

Death On The Highways

The fearful carnage that is the accompaniment of warfare among the belligerent armies on the battlefields of Europe is the subject of shuddering comment daily among the people of this country. "Isn't it awful?" "Isn't it terrible?" are the queries heard as men and women listen to radio reports of the conflict and scan the headlines of the daily newspapers.

Yet the slaughter which is taking thousands of lives on the highways on this side of the Atlantic, and a growing toll at that, is passed over without comment, or with nothing more than a shrug of the shoulder. People have become so used to reports of accidents in which two or three are killed here and three or four lose their lives there, together with a few more injured, that they have not awakened to full realization of the loss of life in the aggregate caused by the automobile.

Despite the safety campaigns inaugurated by police forces, motor clubs and groups of citizens who have sufficient facts at their command to appreciate the dire peril which attends the motorist, when he fares forth on American and Canadian highways, there appears to be no let up in loss of life and limb. On the contrary, recent figures indicate that the menace is becoming greater year by year and month by month. Already, before the holiday season, when the peak of traffic may be expected, indications are that the grim harvester will take a bigger yield on the highways this year than in 1939. It is already a matter of record, for instance, that serious road accidents in Ontario in February of this year totalled 1,226 as compared with 806 in the corresponding month a year ago, a startling increase of approximately 50 per cent.

Unfortunately there is nothing to indicate that the situation will not become progressively worse as the summer wears towards fall, and insofar as the Canadian highway menace is concerned is likely to be accentuated with the influx of a much larger number of American tourists who are obliged, because of war hazards abroad, to spend their summer vacations on the roads of this continent.

Roads Or Drivers?

Very properly the Canadian governments, boards of trade and other organizations are doing their utmost to influence the American tourists to turn their wheels in the direction of this country this summer. It is a traffic which should be encouraged for economic reasons as well as in the interests of cementing the growing friendship between the peoples of the two great North American nations. Indeed, freer communication and closer contacts between Canadians and citizens of the United States may go a long way towards amplifying and encouraging the sympathy which the latter feel towards the Allied countries and the principles for which they are fighting. But, as has already been intimated, there is an element of danger which must be avoided, if anything can be done to minimize the risks of the road.

The difficulty is to know what to do about it. Punishments for carelessness and more restrictive legislation do not appear to be the answer to the problem. Even safety first campaigns conducted through various agencies do not seem to be as effective as they might be, although their objective, that of awakening the motorist to the consciousness of his responsibility, is all to the good.

One school of thought interested in the problem has suggested that much of the blame for loss of life and limb on the highways should be placed on the highways themselves. These authorities assert, and with some degree of truth that high speed, high powered and efficient automobiles have outstripped the roads on which they are used. In other words, road designing and road construction is not keeping pace with the rapid improvements to the automobile.

On the other hand there are those who contend, likewise with some truth to support their assertions, that the driver is to blame for most of the mishaps on the highways. They say that nearly all accidents are the result of negligence on the part of the driver and quote statistics and results of surveys to show that few accidents are the result of ineffective equipment, such as slack brakes, sticking accelerators and the like. They declare that what is needed to make the highways safe for travel is re-birth of the motorist—a new spirit on the road.

Two Main Requirements

It is quite evident that the automobile is efficient and that both the highways and the motorists must share the blame for accidents. If accidents are to be cut down as the volume of traffic continues to grow roads and highways must be designed and built to meet, not the immediate needs of the present day, but those of the years to come and at the same time drivers must be imbued with a greater measure of common sense, courtesy and carefulness than have guided their actions on the roads in the past.

When modern highways, built to match the requirements of the present day automobile and those of the future, are constructed and the motorist has acquired more common sense, then, and then only, will the roads of the country be really safe.

Nothing Is Wasted

London Stores Employ People To Untie Knots In String

Wartime has created a new job in England. Many of the big London stores and business firms have appointed full-time unravellers, reports the London Daily Sketch. The work consists of untangling thousands of knots, disentangling thousands of yards of string. Rope and string, thrown away in peace time, is now carefully kept, since supplies are cut down to about a third of pre-war requirements.

Entertainment For Troops

A preference for entertainment by members of their own regiments has been shown by Canadian troops in England. While professional entertainers have given an enthusiastic welcome, home-brewed concerts, with Canadians as performers, are the most popular.

War On Cats

Kansas Has Been Having Trouble With New Enactment

They have been having a cat-war in Kansas—a war on cats and a war to protect cats. An order had been issued by the State Fish and Game Commissioner that he had killed cats because of their destruction of game fowl. But instantly a vast protest was made by farmers, women's organizations, and cat lovers and cat clubs, and the commissioner was compelled to rescind his order. Farmers published advertisements in local newspapers warning sportsmen against hunting cats on their farms. "No hunting" signs were put up on farms.

The State's game department had offered 2000 pheasants to the county which killed the largest number of cats and crows during the summer. There has been no outcry against the proposed open season on crows, but cats are not to be classed with crows, despite the fact that they delight to feed on quail.

Ogden's Fine Cut is in the spotlight of popularity with smokers everywhere, because it has the fragrance and the flavor of a cigarette. Every cigarette you roll with it is smoother, cooler, more satisfying.

Skilled Labor

Men To-day Must Be Trained To Meet The Swift Competition

An authoritative "Dictionary of Occupational Titles" has been compiled, and it lists 17,452 different jobs! There used to be—and probably still is—a lot of talk about the division of labour—the classification of varieties of employment; but whoever thought that labour would, someday, have over 17,000 descriptions?

It all means that seekers require more and more to be specialists—able to do competently a particular type of work. The jack-of-all-trades type of men—the handy man—is out of luck in these present times. What employers want is persons trained to do efficiently and swiftly a single thing.

If you read the "help wanted" advertisements in newspapers, you will see that advertisers are, increasingly, calling for men of specialized ability. Here's an illustration:

WANTED Designer-Engineer. Practical housewife, design engineer. Must be well experienced in designing, developing and manufacturing of single piece shadow projector motors for 10-20 horsepower domestic. Only high-type individual with the actual experience as outlined will be considered.

The multiplication of occupational classifications means that competition for jobs is lessened, which means, in turn, that the chances of one's getting employment are improved—if he or she has competency in a particular class of work. Competency and specialization are becoming more and more necessary in industry, commerce, finance, transportation, retailing, accountancy, and in every other vocational classification.

Discipline Needed

The Results Of Experimental Theories Are Shown

The general idea of progressive education is to grant the pupil an extraordinary amount of freedom with little or no restraint or discipline. It is an exceptional child who does not develop into a brash adolescent with a casual view of those moral standards which never vary from generation to generation. They weaken or quit when faced with the slightest of adverse circumstances or temptation because they honestly do not know how else to meet the situation. The marks left in this world by those people who knew childhood discipline, often strict, and who could discipline themselves when the need arose, provides the practical answer to these experimental theories.—Boston Post.

Abandoned His Post

General Henri Bodet, of the French medical corps, was condemned to six months in prison by the Paris military tribunal for abandoning his post in the Sedan sector during the night of May 15. ### Red Cross Blankets

Need For Woolen Blankets For Refugees Is Most Urgent

Once again the rallying cry of "Help the Red Cross" has rung across Canada. This time it came direct from France to Toronto and the west received it within the hour. The appeal was so urgent for the thousands of almost starving and almost naked refugees that it could not possibly be met from mills and stores. Every housewife in Canada has been asked to do her bit and when the last bale is shipped it is pretty safe betting there will be no moth in all the west for the moths to feast on this summer. The cry reached the west just as the good housekeepers had all the blankets washed or cleaned and ready to store them for summer. Merchants had ordered their supplies into moth proof storage during the first week of June.

What happened when the depots opened was that givers were waiting with their bundles. Men, single men, were rushing through the first open door of the stores where blankets could be bought. The instructions were very simple, very clear, very explicit. The need is for all wool blankets, double or single, new or not too much worn and clean. The used blankets to be kept together and the new likewise and each blanket marked as to whether it was new or used.

In the country districts where the call could not reach the Red Cross groups or individuals it will be safe to ship any wool blankets that can be spared to any Red Cross headquarters. That what is sent must be wool blankets is made very definite. Just why other covering will not be taken at present no doubt will be explained later.

Royal Air Force Causing Great Damage Bombing The Enemy

London.—Wide-ranging Royal Air Force bombers blew up hidden German ammunition dumps in the Ardennes mountains, set fire to Nazi oil tanks in Belgium, and bombed and machine-gunned enemy troops behind the front, the air ministry announced.

At the same time, the health ministry said the beginning of German bombing in England made it imperative to move 120,000 children from greater London to safer areas in the west, principally Cornwall, Devonshire, Somerset and Wales.

In the last three weeks more than 50,000 children have been moved from the east coast to safer localities.

The air raids and attacks on German troops spread "destruction and chaos" behind the enemy lines, the air ministry said, and caused German troops to flee precipitately from British machine-gun bullets.

The ministry said 17 German aircraft were shot down while six British aircraft are missing.

Some of the bombers penetrated as far into western Germany as Rhenish Prussia and the Ruhr valley.

In one air fight eight Hurricane fighters tackled 20 Heinkel bombers and their 10 Messerschmitt escorts over the battle zone. The Hurricanes shot down six bombers and one bomber plane. Two Hurricanes are missing.

Amplifying the report of the raid on the Nazi oil stores at Ghent, the air ministry said "scores of heavy bombs" were dropped on oil tanks which blazed fiercely and sent up clouds of black smoke. The flames revealed five railroad lines, two filled with cars.

"The pilot was able to obtain very precise results on the unexpected target," the ministry said. There was a succession of great explosions as the cars blew up."

Giving details of the raids on communication lines, the ministry said:

"Enemy transport columns were scattered and flung into confusion. Lines of tanks were heavily bombed and armored cars and motor lorries were reduced to twisted wreckage from direct hits."

"Troops on the march were machine-gunned, anti-aircraft guns were attacked and silenced and a gasoline dump hidden in a wood was blown up."

"Bombers ranging over the right wing of the German front in the region of the Bresle and Somme rivers spread destruction and chaos at many points behind the enemy line."

The ministry told of a direct hit on a column of German automobiles and troops between Amiens and Aumale, where "one of the aircraft took advantage of the ensuing confusion to bring its own machine gun into play against a mass of vehicles."

Another hit on a column of trucks a few miles north of Poix, in the Aumale region, was reported along with the bombing of a road and a railway crossing southeast of that town.

"As the raiders swept down to attack, they machine-gunned the German troops, who scattered precipitately," the ministry said.

U.S. Passport Move

Ottawa.—The unofficial view was expressed that the United States action in requiring passports henceforth from Canadians entering the United States, even temporarily, likely was prompted by concern over the possibility European refugees might find their way to the United States after reaching Canada.

Rotary Contributors Ambulance

Calgary.—Five minutes was all the time necessary for Calgary Rotarians to contribute $2,146 to purchase and fully equip a Red Cross ambulance for use in war torn areas of Europe.

Set All-Time Record

Churchill, Man.—An all-time record for early break-up was established here June 4 when the ice went out of the harbor. This is earlier by seven days than the previous record set last year. Boats may now be anchored at the dock of the northern port without ice interference. Churchill river is running free to the sea.

British Labor Pledged To Speed Production Of War Requirements

Ottawa.—Steps are being taken immediately to settle the question of tank production in Canada, Hon. C. D. Howe, munitions minister, told the commons.

He said a delegation of engineers is expected to leave for the United Kingdom by the next boat and go into the question thoroughly and settle it "once for all."

From experience of the past week, the British now have developed a 40-ton tank which they believe is an effective tank under modern conditions, a tank suitable for Canada to copy, the minister said.

"Even after information is obtained and all possible help has been secured outside of Canada, it will still be an exceedingly complex job for Canadian industry to build tanks," said Mr. Howe. "No one firm will be called upon to do the entire job. It will mean the collaboration of the heavy industries of this country."

(Mr. Howe told the House of Commons last May 29 that specifications for a heavy tank, known as a "mark 3 or Ballantyne tank," had been received in Canada from Britain last January. But before production could be started the order for 100 such tanks was withdrawn by the British war supply board on April 2, after the tank design had been altered.)

(At that time Mr. Howe said it had been decided that the logical plant in Canada to undertake that order was the Angus shop in Montreal and the Canadian Pacific Railway, which owns the shop, had stated it would undertake the work and immediately placed its engineers on the job of organizing the work.)

"The situation as regards tanks is this," Mr. Howe said.

"Canada can undoubtedly make a tank—and tanks are made in the United States. However, we have in Europe a battle of tanks which is developing some new facts about the tank as weapons of warfare. For every tank that is invented a gun is shortly afterwards invented to deal with that particular type of tank and the effectiveness of tanks in the field depends on their being proof against the latest type of anti-tank gun."

British experience in the field has resulted in a change of ideas as to what constituted the "effective tank for warfare of this day," and these ideas differed widely from those of United States military authorities.

The academic question whether tanks can or cannot be made in Canada depends for its answer upon the type of tanks you have in mind and I presume that a great many of the differences that have arisen in discussions here have arisen because some people have one idea of a tank and I have in mind another.

"We can produce in this country alloy steel up to a maximum thickness of two inches. The type of tanks that we have in mind (40 tons) has required steel of more than twice that thickness."

"We produce gasoline engines in this country that would propel some kind of a tank. The tank I have in mind is propelled with a Diesel engine much larger than anything we have produced in Canada."

"It is folly to say that we cannot produce Diesel engines in Canada. Canadian industry can do anything provided it is given sufficient time and development expenses. It can be done but it may not be of much help at the moment."

Work has begun on a new military motor vehicle order involving an expenditure of $13,000,000, a government announcement said.

Chassis and engines are being produced by the Ford and General Motors companies, while other companies are working on wheels and tires. Specifications for the special bodies involved are being prepared.

Refugee Children

Plans Have Been Completed For Care Of Children In Canada

Ottawa.—Plans have been completed for fullest co-operation between Canadian organizations in receiving and placing throughout the Dominion thousands of refugee and British children when the British and French governments are agreeable to their movement, Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, announced.

The agreement for fullest co-operation between the Dominion, the provinces and child welfare and other organizations was reached at the Dominion-provincial conference called by Mr. Crerar. All provinces were represented.

Associated in the conference deliberations were some technical advisers of the child and other welfare agencies which will work with the provinces in the direction authorities in the reception, placement and after care of the children.

The immigration branch, in connection with the selection abroad of children, will obtain all family particulars so as to ensure the retention of identity of children, this being essential should they later return to their own people.

The department of pensions and national health will look after medical supervision in transit, including the train journey in Canada. Provincial authorities and social agencies will come into immediate action at receiving centres to which children will be forwarded from ocean ports.

The plan visualizes distribution as quickly as possible after arrival so that children can be restored to normal life in private homes. The accomplishment of this task calls for the closest co-operation between the Dominion government and the nine provinces, the announcement said.

Running Behind Schedule

Says Hitler Expected To Defeat Allies Before End Of May

London.—Adolf Hitler confidently expected the capitulation of Britain and France by May 25, a member of the Netherlands legation at Berlin said in an interview here. The diplomat is now stationed in London.

According to the diplomat, the Hitler blitzkrieg machine is running behind schedule. Hitler, he said, wrote Premier Mussolini of Italy that French and British resistance would be crushed in 15 days following the occupation of Holland and Belgium. Holland was supposed to have been over-run in a day. The time-table did not work this way.

The German army did not have more than 15,000 trained parachutists, the diplomat said, and most of these are believed to have been killed or captured. Most of Germany's troop transports planes, he said, were lost in the past few months.

Available If Needed

Big Transport Planes Of T.C.A. Could Be Used In Emergency

Ottawa.—In a military emergency, the 15 big transport planes of Trans-Canada Air Lines would be turned over to the Royal Canadian Air Force immediately, but there is little prospect of such an eventuality, Hon. C. D. Howe, transport minister, said in parliament.

The T.C.A. planes are really sister ships of the Lockheed Hudson bombers-reconnaissance planes.

Premier King Greets French Minister

France's new Minister to Canada, Hon. Rene Ristelhueber, has arrived at Ottawa and can be seen above when he was welcomed to the Canadian capital by Premier King.

Air Protector

A world war naval hero, Admiral Sir Edward Evans, above, was named by Lord Beaverbrook, Britain's air chief, protection minister, to take charge of the "local protection and security of England's aircraft factories and airbases."

Parachute Troops

Report Says That Majority Of Those Dropped In Holland Were Killed

London.—Authoritative sources, basing their estimates partly on the evidence of German prisoners, said a majority of the German parachute troops dropped in Holland were killed. "Amazing examples," cited by these sources, included a case of 16 infantrymen in one plane of whom only one survivor was found. In another, one they said, of 10 men who tried to land, three were killed in the air and four were shot when they reached earth.

A British fighter pilot was credited by the air ministry with "worrying" a German bomber into a crash after the Briton's ammunition had run out. Over the Dunkirk area the pilot encountered a German Junker but his cartridge drums had been emptied. The air ministry said the pilot dived at the Junkers' tail and "worried" the enemy so much by a succession of stunts that ultimately he made a fatal error in trying to turn and went crashing into the ground."

Strength Of Fleet

Britain's Naval Strength Greatest Than Beginning Of War

London.—Despite the loss of six destroyers in the monumental evacuation of Allied troops from Dunkirk, Britain's total strength in these vital craft is greater than it was at the outbreak of war. New destroyers to be extinguished by the powers of evil or yield their liberties to the tyranny of Nazi brutality.

Outlining the measures taken by Canada to meet the new situation, Mr. King revealed for the first time that Canadian soldiers were guarding strategic areas in Newfoundland. He said they were on service in the British West Indies and the North Atlantic, but the state together with North Atlantic he said, and other than Newfoundland. The recruitment of 4,000 additional men for the Royal Canadian Navy since the course of the war changed by the invasion of Holland and Belgium was one of many measures recommended by the prime minister. Certain measures taken could yet be reversed for military reasons, he explained.

Canada's present financial appropriation for war of $2,000,000 a day would have to be increased as exceptional needs were met.

All was not dark, he said. The first series of enemy gains would not win the war. German advances contained elements of weakness. Economic blockade and contraband control could be applied with increasing

Says Canada Will Rise To The Challenge Of New Responsibilities

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that Canada would rise to the challenge of new responsibilities in a widening war and declared "if new enemies oppose us, we may be sure that old and new friends will arise to help us."

In his address, carried over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. King named no new enemies but referred to President Roosevelt's speech "in the name of humanity."

The prime minister said the coming phase of the war "will witness operations in entirely new theatres of war. It will most certainly be marked by conflict between nations that thus far have escaped or avoided hostilities."

Canada's new responsibilities, the prime minister said, were stated by Prime Minister Winston Churchill when he spoke of the new world carrying on the fight for freedom in the event Britain and France should suffer the same reverses.

"The nation," he said, "with all the strength of its youth, the wealth of its resources and the idealism of its freedom will proudly accept its new responsibility."

"We are the bridge between the old world and the new; the bridge which joins the new freedom of the North American continent with the ancient freedom of Britain which gave it birth. We will stand resolute to defend its approaches and its abutments."

Every fort in Canada would be another Calais, every harbor another Dunkirk before Canadians would allow the light of their Christian faith to be extinguished by the powers of evil or yield their liberties to the tyranny of Nazi brutality.

Outlining the measures taken by Canada to meet the new situation, Mr. King revealed for the first time that 11 Canadian soldiers were guarding strategic areas in Newfoundland. He said they were on service in the British West Indies and the North Atlantic, but the state together with North Atlantic he said, and other than Newfoundland. The recruitment of 4,000 additional men for the Royal Canadian Navy since the course of the war changed by the invasion of Holland and Belgium was one of many measures recommended by the prime minister. Certain measures taken could yet be reversed for military reasons, he explained.

Canada's present financial appropriation for war of $2,000,000 a day would have to be increased as exceptional needs were met.

pressure. The Allied nations had acquired a new discipline and now, neutral, a new realization of the situation. The enemy's tactics, his weapons and his strengths were known.

The prime minister reviewed the Commonwealth Air Training plan activity and said it had been stated the plan will be abandoned or postponed because of certain changes. "This is not true. It will yet be a decisive instrument of victory."

In stirring words, Mr. King called to the men of Flanders.

Hitherto, he said attention was centered Germany as the sole enemy. The coming phase of the war would witness operations in entirely new theatres and be marked by conflict between nations which had so far avoided hostilities.

These dangers should not unduly alarm as the perils of the present had brought a new realization of the nature of the conflict to all free peoples. The days when democracy lacked foresight were gone.

New Kind Of Army

Call For Recruits Against Evil

London.—Major-General L. W. Amps, director of the auxiliary military pioneers' service, Royal Engineers, called for recruits of all ages for a new kind of army to fight for good against evil. General Amps spoke to an enthusiastic audience of 1,300 in Battersea Town Hall, supporting the mayor's moral re-armament campaign to meet Hitler.

"Each of us," he said, "of us are to do our utmost for England, must look to ourselves to see if any of the things against which we are fighting—dishonesty, selfishness, greed—still exist in us."

Other speakers included Phyllis Konstan, wife of Bunny Austin, the tennis player; wives and mothers of men in the services; and factory workers.

Gasoline Reserves

Canada Is Holding Huge Stores Of Plans Gas

Ottawa.—Reserves of high grade aviation gasoline in Canada "now are very substantially in excess of the Royal Canadian Air Force and air training plan requirements during the coming year," the department of munitions and supply announced.

The reserves have been built up voluntarily by oil companies and the capacity of Canadian oil refineries is sufficient to take care of the expanding needs of R.C.A.F. and the air training plan in 1941 and 1942.

The Construction Of 300 Tanks Has Started In Canada

Ottawa.—Construction of 300 tanks at Hamilton, Ont., is the technical advance in Canada, the director of munitions and supply on men of munitions and supply.

"The industrialists who attended this meeting expressed their conviction that despite many difficulties involved tanks, of even the most modern type, could be produced in Canada," said the statement.

"Accordingly, a cable was dispatched to G. S. Russell of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who had been sent to England some months ago to secure information on plans and of the Mark III. Valentine tank."

This, added the statement, is the tank for which the munitions department at one time had a requisition from the United Kingdom for 100 but the regulation was withdrawn before complete drawings and specifications had been made available to Canada.

As the United Kingdom had approved a newer and much larger type of tank than the Mark III, those at the meeting felt it was essential that a competent engineer, fully conversant with all phases of production of the British tank, and vested with complete authority to make rulings and accept changes in specifications, be sent to Canada once and remain available to the Canadian companies who would do this work until the first tank had been produced.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE declaration of war against the Allies by Italy has been brought home to Coleman people in probably more serious than in other places by reason of the Italian population living here and in other towns of the Crows Nest Pass. Leaders of the Italian people here have expressed their sorrow at their native country entering the war, a country which in 1914-18 was fighting with the Allies against Germany. The Italian people living here, have in most cases, been here for over thirty years; their children were born here and attended our schools, and to all intents and purposes are Canadians. This should be remembered and though feelings during war time are liable to become strained, it would be discreet on the part of all concerned to avoid raising controversy between people of differing nationalities. These people's home interests are now in Canada, and as Mayor D'Appolonia declared, they came here to seek advantages which were not available in their homeland. For that reason, and for the freedom and privileges enjoyed under Canadian citizenship, they regard Canada as their home. The entry of Italy is an unfortunate episode, and there is no alternative for France and Great Britain but to fight on to the bitter end, no matter what the cost. The Italian Society of Natal-Michel last week sent a cablegram to Premier Mussolini beginning him not to plunge Italy into war, but evidently plans were laid long since to aid Germany.

Midnight shows have been discontinued in Oshawa. They should never have been started in the first place. If people can't get enough entertainment between sunrise and midnight they should consult a doctor.—Bowmanville (Ont.) Statesman.

IN the House of Commons, Ottawa, Alan Chambers, member for Nanaimo, the youngest member of the house, in his maiden speech, speaking on the War Appropriation Bill, making provision for granting to His Majesty aid for national defence and security, stated:

"Since the beginning of this, my first session in this house, I have heard no small amount of discussion as to where the blame must lie for the fact that this country faces the greatest of all crises in its history not fully prepared. The time has come, Mr. Chairman—and I say this with all respect to the veteran members of the house—to put an end to this form of argument. It will be of no concern to the people of this country to know who are the guilty. It will be of no concern to them to ascertain whether the responsibility lies here or elsewhere. It will be of no concern to anyone to be able to say that he was wiser than another. All that will concern the people of Canada will be whether from this moment forward the service of the state is conducted with all the vigour and efficiency of which the members of this parliament and the servants of the crown are capable. It will not even concern the people of this country whether the decisions which so far have been taken were right or wrong. It will concern them only to know that the decisions we make from now on are right. I believe that only if this spirit imbues us all and directs our every word and action, shall we rise to meet the problems which confront us and serve, as we should, in the present struggle to save the world from destruction."

During a Sunday morning broadcast a Calgary minister remarked: "Where are the people who thronged the churches two weeks ago in response to the call for a national day of prayer?" Apparently the only time many think of God and the church is when in distress or wanting something.

MEN called on by their fellow citizens to give some form of public service are usually those whose time is fully employed during the day, and most of the evening. Yet many labor under the impression they do little if any work. It is a fact that the willing horse is always worked the most, and particularly in times such as we are experiencing, with so many organizations functioning for war purposes, is this noticeable. People willing to serve their country and their communities should receive the heartiest co-operation possible so that their tasks can be made lighter. But not infrequently are they subjected to criticism, and in some cases abuse, because their course of action displeases individual factions who see nothing but deadly rivalry and ulterior motives in opposing factions. It is human nature, and is seen everywhere in life's activities. The wise person realizes this and charitably makes allowance in his own heart. Were earnest workers easily discouraged, our various war charities would fare very poorly, and the soldiers and sailors would suffer for the lack of those things patriotic women spend all their leisure time in making

"No one can doubt how much hangs upon the issue, or upon the fortitude of those thin lines of flesh and blood which are standing and dying at their posts in defence of everything worthwhile in their world—and ours"—New York Herald Tribune.

When Russia invaded Finland, volunteers reported at 10,000, material figured at more than $100,000,000, aside from airplanes contracted for by Sweden but diverted to Finland, and supplies for civilian use were thrown into the scale by Sweden on Finland's behalf. Aid was calculated as amounting to $20 for each Swedish citizen. If this per capita contribution were matched by United States aid to the Allies, the value of supplies reaching them would be $2,600,000. The manpower would number 208,000 volunteers. But to match the alertness of the Swedes in recognizing where the Nation's first line of defence lies, Americans should have despatched this aid within three and a half months after Hitler's invasion of Poland.—Christian Science Monitor.

The change of pastorate is now a settled thing. The minister will move to Cayley at the end of June. Rev. J. E. Kirk, B.A., B.D., will come to Coleman from Cayley at the same time. This arrangement was ratified by the Conference settlement committee at its recent meeting in Edmonton. Mr. Bevan expects to conduct his final service here on Sunday morning, June 30.

Next Sunday, at the morning service, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed. This will be the regular summer communion. All who have come into communicant membership with the congregation during the last four years are especially urged to attend. The service will begin at the usual hour.

Funeral of Mrs.
Alex. Beck Last Thursday

Attended by Family and Friends
From Towns.

Last Thursday afternoon, the funeral service for Mrs. Alex. Beck was held in St. Paul's United church, in the presence of the members of the family and friends. A short service was held at the home, a mile west of Coleman, following which the funeral procession motored into town. Rev. H. J. Bevan conducted the services. He referred to the life of Mrs. Beck, stating she had always been busy trying to do something for the church, having in earlier years been an active member of one of the women's organizations.

Though we are living in a changed world, and the older generation is passing on, yet the personality of such people as Mrs. Beck would always be remembered by her friends as human nature at its best. Her kindly, quick humor, always made it a pleasure to meet her.

So many of the older people had passed in recent years that he had oft remarked it seemed, in gathering for such occasions as this, that they were going home, where life would be eternal.

The only hymn sung at the church was "Rock of Ages," the organ accompaniment being played by Miss Lorraine Rippon.

The Fernie Free Press, referring to Mrs. Beck's death, stated: "Deceased and her husband were well-known pioneers of Fernie, coming here in 1898. They owned and operated a bakery and confectionery store where the Crows' Nest Bakery now is. Old Fernie friends unite in expressing their sincere sympathy to bereaved relatives."

The pallbearers were H. C. McBurney, J. O. C. McDonald, Rev. Roy C. Taylor, J. Emerson, Robert Holmes and W. L. Rippon.

Those from a distance attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Beck, of Fernie; Mr. and Mrs. John McCrae, of Pincher Creek; Mr. Campbell and daughter, of Rock Creek, and other friends.

Burial was in Coleman cemetery, and many floral tributes from friends both here and from other points were laid on the grave.

GIFTS, NOT LOANS

Americans are casting about earnestly to decide by what ways they can give quick and effective aid to the allies short of involving themselves in war. A recent Gallup poll indicates that 71 per cent of the people believe the United States should give more aid to the allies than they are giving, whereas only 15 per cent felt that way three months ago.

In any event, whatever aid may be given by the United States or its citizens should not be given sparingly or grudgingly. It ought not to be written down in books for future collection. Let it instead be given freely with a full heart, in gratitude that peoples on whom the brunt has fallen are willing to use it in defense of democracy and a code of international morality.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Men elected by the miners by ballot are their representatives. At the Red Cross meeting on Monday evening controversy which at times went to personalities was created by one who poses as a representative of the men, but who was not elected by them, and tried to give the impression that he could determine what the miners should give towards the Red Cross. The question is are their actions to be governed by a "walking delegate"? This town has no place for this kind of thing, for each individual has the sole right to say what and when he shall give. Truth About the Red Cross

"If your neighbor tells you the Canadian Red Cross Society is selling the socks and sweaters that patriotic women knit for the soldiers and sailors, it's a Nazi lie."

This is the opening paragraph of an editorial in The Globe and Mail, Toronto. During the opening campaign of the Red Cross last November, quite frequently in Coleman ex-service men made the statement that they had purchased various Red Cross supplies. But when definite proof was asked, only vague statements were forthcoming. Recently it was reported that a Blairmore man had purchased a sweater in a Lethbridge store which had been made for the Red Cross. As far as investigation was able to prove, this article had been sold by a soldier who had received it as a gift. But the Red Cross got the blame by those who did not know the facts.

Another instance was reported to The Journal of a responsible man who stated that nobody in his family would be allowed to subscribe to the Red Cross, because their supplies were sold. Needless to state, no proof was forthcoming to substantiate his claims.

In view of these libellous statements against the Red Cross, The Journal publishes the remainder of the Globe and Mail editorial, which might well be taken to heart by those who discourage by their irresponsible statements the splendid work which patriotic woman throughout the Dominion and the Empire are engaged in:

"The Red Cross has never been able to obtain proof that socks so made are being sold for 49 cents a pair, or any other price. The canard has been officially denied a score of times, but is still circulating.

Out of every dollar subscribed to the Canadian Red Cross 80 cents is being used for actual war work, 14.5 cents for peace-time services, and only 3.5 cents for administration.

The Canadian Red Cross has for months been shipping thousands of cases of hospital supplies, surgical dressings and comforts, including knitted goods made by Canadian women, to be available England for emergencies. Thousands of refugees from Holland and Belgium who have poured into England are being helped. An organization has been set up to minister to the Canadian soldiers overseas. A 600-bed Red Cross hospital has been erected and equipped at Taplow, near Windsor Castle. Canadian prisoners of war in Germany will be fed and cared for, as they were during the last war, when 2,700 were supplied with the necessities of life in one month.

Nazi lies about the Canadian Red Cross are circulated to discourage the thousands of women across the Dominion who are giving of their time and effort voluntarily to provide comforts for the gallant fighting men. Its work is universal, and its scope is limited only by the need.

100,000 IN CANADA'S ACTIVE SERVICE FORCES

On May 10 there were 10,926 airmen and 1,388 officers in the Royal Canadian Air Force. One squadron had gone overseas for army co-operation, and the others were being used for home defence.

On May 10 there were more than 100,000 men in the three branches of the active service forces and all depots are rapidly expanding. A new department of air service has been set up with a very active minister, and 12 companies of veterans of the last war will deal with 6th Column activities in co-operation with the R.C.M.P.

COAL SUBVENTIONS REMAIN IN FORCE

James Mackinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, when replying to the Board of Trade's telegram protesting against the proposed cancellation of the subvention on Alberta coal, has written the Secretary of the Board advising that the subvention will remain in force and a survey of the situation will be made before the Dominion government arrives at a final decision.—Drumheller Mail.

It is suggested that citizens might do a good deal for themselves in suppressing the dust nuisance of the town by driving more slowly round the streets. No one is so pressed for time in his round town ambling that he needs to buzz round at top speed, and when he does he leaves a dust screen that is most disagreeable to residents. A little co-operation in this respect would help everyone. — Drumheller Mail.

Good Typographical Appearance Important to Advertisers

Well Printed Newspapers More Attractive to the Reader and of Greater Value to Advertiser.

Competitions are held among daily and weekly newspapers of Canada and the United States, which act as an incentive for publishers to strive for progressive improvement. Commenting on the 1940 competitions among dailies of the United States, and which applies equally to Canadian newspapers, H. A. Batten, president of N. Y. Ayer & Son, stated:

"From the standpoint of the advertiser, the improvement is highly important. While the average reader might not be able to explain 'why' in many words, there is no question that he reads more of the paper, and therefore sees more of the advertising, when the make-up is inviting and the typography is such that it is easy for him to follow the news from page to page."

"That the reader has become more discriminating with regard to the way in which printed matter is presented can be verified readily through the experience of advertising. Survey after survey have shown that well-designed, good-looking, easily readable advertisements do far better than those which are jumbled and hard to read. The reader's reaction is undoubtedly similar in the case of news."

"We are indeed gratified at the extent to which publishers have recognized the role of good typography in creating a product which is more attractive and interesting to the reader, and therefore more effective for the advertiser to use."

Junior Farm Clubs

Phenomenal Progress Has Been Made In The Movement

If there was nothing else in the whole gamut of agricultural development that showed improvement, the phenomenal progress being made by the junior farm club movement throughout Canada, as exemplified by the official report, would constitute one of the great features of agriculture in our time. The report for 1939 states that the membership was 45,314, compared with 37,264 in 1938, an increase of 21 per cent. In 1931 the membership was 21,142, so that in the short space of eight years it has been doubled—Vancouver Sun.

Nation-Wide Appeal For Blankets Brings Quick Response

The nation-wide appeal for blankets for equipment of French hospital beds recently launched is resulting excellently in Saskatchewan. There has already been received more than 250 blankets. The express companies are delivering numerous packages three or four times a day to the Provincial Depot at Regina. It is a special way the population can meet an emergency, such as the Red Cross is expected to provide for. The blankets received were on the way to the seaboard within a day of arrival. Large quantities are expected each day from Red Cross branches and believe the total from Saskatchewan will be very large.

At a special meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Saskatchewan Red Cross a further $10,000 was voted to be sent to the National Office of the Society in Toronto for financing overseas emergency commitments, which the Red Cross of Canada has been called upon to make in aid of the British Red Cross and the French Society endeavoring to meet the tremendous task of caring for all military and refugee casualties requiring hospitalization. ### PEOPLE JUDGE YOU BY YOUR TABLE MANNERS

Be Careful Not to Offend

The girl who has never learned the important lesson of grace in table manners is an embarrassing companion she can be for a young man of background.

Stopping for tea at the country club, she takes bites out of a whole sandwich—never guessing that it is as much of an error as to bite a whole piece of bread. You break a sandwich or a piece of bread as you eat.

Avoiding such offending blunders is simple if you check up on etiquette. Does the question of "Fingers versus Fork" trouble you? Eat with a fork for club and three-decker sandwiches, for layer and frosted cakes, French pastry.

These foods are eaten with the fingers, except crumpets, bacon, celery, and radishes, olives, Saratoga chips, cookies, plain cakes.

What should you do with your napkin as you rise from the table? Fold it, half folded, under the edge of your plate.

The answers to dozens of other questions on table etiquette are given in our own book, "How To Be At Your Best," now available in the Canadian market.

Polish Black Book

Record Of Unspeakable Atrocities Committed By Germans

Germany is attempting to exterminate the entire Polish race to make room for its own people, it was charged in a Polish "black book" issued in New York.

The first instalment of the black book was published by the Monthly Future, a Polish-American magazine. It was prepared by T. F. Bennett and Anthony Tarnowski, of the Polish information centre attached to the Polish consulate.

It estimated that the campaign and occupation of Poland took the lives of 1,100,000 adults, 200,000 children and 320,000 officers and soldiers. It claimed that 4,000,000 civilians had been deported from their homes in the old Polish corridor 100 at a time in sealed cattle cars built for 50.

Since the war began, 26,000 civilians have been executed the black book charged, and 7,000,000 persons are now held as prisoners.

The publication accused the Nazis of "unashamedly stamping the natural increase of Polish population by forbidding young people to marry, and by exposing thousands of children to famine."

I Read---And Write---For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

This summer and autumn Portugal is to celebrate the 800th anniversary of the founding of the Portuguese State. The purpose is to have an exhibition of the Portuguese world. The great days of Portuguese history will be made occasion for special celebrations. These great events include the exploration of the world; the achievements of Prince Henry the Geographer and Navigator; the voyages of Vasco da Gama; the discovery of the route to India; the circumnavigation of the globe by Magellan; the winning of Brazil for Portugal, and the establishment in the New World of Brazil.

The situation of Portugal—at the edge of the mysteries of the Great Ocean—fostered the longing of the Portuguese to go to distant places. In the course of time the Portuguese reached out to nearly two-thirds of the earth. They colonized the islands of Madeira and the Azores; they mapped the coast of Africa; they discovered the continent of Brazil; they visited Abyssinia; they took possession of Brazil; they found a sea route to India; they secured a sea route to the Far East; they reached the Far East.

No one was hurt, but the car was badly damaged. To the amazement of the somewhat shaken travelers, there was a nurse in the next car that passed. A priest stepped out of the broken car. The next one brought a doctor, and the next an ambulance man! All stopped to help.

A Prison-Gate Arrest

"What do you want?" asked Ingé again.

"Me? Nothing! I've been up to the station this morning for inquiries about a friend of one of those mucky birds, but you know what they are—it was love's labor lost, so to speak," said Elk, lighting a cigar and offering the stick to his companion.

Ingé took the brown cylinder, smelt it, and, biting off the end savagely, accepted the light which the detective held for him. By this time the train was moving and they were free from any possibility of interruption.

"Let me see; I heard something about you the other day . . . What was it?" Mr. Elk held his forehead, a picture of perplexity. "I've got it!" he said. "There was a burglary at your flat."

The cigar dropped from the man's hand.

"A burglary?" he said shrilly. "What was stolen?"

"Somebody opened the safe in your locker room——"

Ingé sprang to his feet, his teeth bared, his eyes glaring.

"The safe!" He almost screamed the words. "Opened the safe—damn them! They're not satisfied with sending me to five years of hell, but they want to catch me again, do they? . . ."

Elk let him rave on until, in his rage, the man's voice sank to a hoarse rattle of sound.

"I hope you didn't lose any money?"

"Money?" snarled the man. "Do you think I'm the kind who puts money in a safe? You know what I lost!" He pointed an accusing finger at the detective. "You fellows did it! So that's why you're here? A prison-arrest, is it?"

"My dear, good man!" Elk was pained. "I don't know what you're talking about! You're no more under arrest than I am. You could walk out of that door as free as the air, if the train wasn't moving."

And then he asked:

"What did they pinch?"

It was a long time before the man recovered himself.

"If you don't know I'm not going to tell you," he said. "Some day—" he ground his teeth and in his eyes glared the fires of fanaticism. "You and the likes of you call me a thief!" His voice rose again, he talked rapidly. "You branded me and put me into prison—segregated me from my kind . . . a parish, a leper. For what? For skimming off a little of the stolen cream? For taking a little of the stolen cream? For robbing a woman of her clothes from sweater bodies and breaking hearts! It was mine—mine!" He struck his chest with a bony fist, his eyes blazing. "The money belonged to me—to my fellows, to those men there!" He pointed back to where, beyond the brow of a rise, lay the grim prison building. "I took it from these fat and greasy men, and I'm glad of it! One jewel less for their horrible women; one motor car fewer for their slaves to clean!"

Revolution Staff

"Great idea," murmured Elk sympathetically.

"You? What are you? The lackey of a class?" snarled Ingé. "The hired torturer—the prison-feeder!"

"Quite right," murmured Elk, listening with closed eyes.

"They found those papers they're something to think about—do you hear?—something to spoil that almighty sleep! And if there is sedition in them I'm willing to go back to Princeton."

Elk opened his eyes quickly.

"Oh, was that what it was?" he asked, disappointed. "Revolution stuff?"

The man nodded curtly.

"I thought it was something worth while," said Elk, annoyed. "Silly idea, though, isn't it, Ingé?"

"To you, yes. To me, no," snapped the other. "I hate the English! I hate the English! I hate all the middle-class people, the smirking, self-satisfied swines! I hated them when I was a starving actor and they sat in their stalls with a sneer on their faces. * * * He choked.

"There's a lot to be said for fat people," mused Elk. "Now take Harlow—though you wouldn't call him a fat man."

"Harlow!" scoffed the other. "Another of your moneyed gods!"

Evidently he remembered something, for he stopped suddenly.

"Moneyed gods!" suggested Elk.

"I don't know." The man shook his head. "He may not be what he seems. In there—he jerked his head backward — they say he's crook to his back teeth! But he doesn't rob the poor. He takes it in large sums from the fat men."

"If that's so, I've nothing to say. He's on the side of law and order," said Elk gently. "A man who hands out police stations as Christmas presents can't be wholly bad."

By the time the train pulled into Plymouth Station, Detective Inspector Elk was perfectly satisfied that there was nothing further to be learnt from the man. He went to the telegraph office and sent a wire to Jim which was short and expressive:

Revolution stuff. Nothing important.

He was on the same train that carried Mr. Ingle to London, but he did not occupy the same compartment, except for half an hour after the train flashed through Bath, when he strolled into the carriage and sat down by the man's side, and apparently he was welcome, for Ingle started talking.

To Her Fate

"Have you seen anything of my niece? Does she know about the burglary? I think you told me, but I was so angry that I can't remember." And when Elk had given him the fullest particulars: "Harlow? Why did he come? He met Aileen at Dartmoor, you say?" He frowned and suddenly slapped his knee. "Remember the fellow. He was sprawling in his car by the side of the road when we came back from the field that day. So that was Harlow? Does he know Aileen?" he asked suspiciously.

"They met at Dartmoor; that's all I know."

Ingé gave one of his characteristic shrugs.

"I suppose he's running after her? She's a pretty sort of girl. With that type of man, money's no object. She's old enough to look after herself without any assistance."

So this Utopian left Aileen Rivers to her fate.

He had wired from Plymouth asking her to call at the flat that night, and she arrived just as he had finished a dinner that he had cooked for himself.

"Yes, I've heard about the burglary," he said, cutting short her question. "They've got nothing that was worth a shilling to them, thank God! Why did you call in the police?"

And then he asked:

"What did they pinch?"

It was a long time before the man recovered himself.

"If you don't know I'm not going to tell you," he said. "Some day—" he ground his teeth and in his eyes glared the fires of fanaticism. "You and the likes of you call me a thief!" He took out his pocketbook, opened it and extracted a bank note. "This is in the nature of a bonus," he said. "I do not intend continuing my allowance."

He muttered something under his breath which she did not catch and then: "You know what I mean?"

"Is that all?" she asked. She did not attempt to take up the note. "That is all."

With a nod she turned and walked to the door.

"The charwoman are coming tonight to clean up," she said. "You had better make arrangements for one of them to stay on—but I suppose you've already made your plans."

Before he could reply, she was gone. He heard the street door slam after her, took up the money and put it back in his case, and he was without regret, for, if the truth be told, Mr. Arthur Ingé, despite the

A Military Hero

General Weygand Has Tackled Biggest Job In The World

The need of the Allies at the moment seems to be great Generals. That is why General Maxime Weygand was called to take charge of the Allies' campaign on land. Game was not measuring up to the task, otherwise he would not have been retired.

Weygand is now 73 years of age, and joined the army in 1887. He was an officer throughout the war. For a time in the winter of 1917-18 he was France's representative on the Versailles war council, but Foch replaced him in March of 1918. It is recorded that his work in the critical battles of March to October was "exceedingly brilliant, but owing to his nature brought him less recognition than was deserved."

The British Film Institute has put forward the scheme to Sir Cecil Weller, head of the Board of Trade established by the Board of Trade to increase Britain's wartime exports.

The majority of the export groups into which British Industries have been divided for the purposes of the export drive have approached, and most of them have expressed their keenness.

"The firms would be in miniature and made in colour," said a representative of the Iron and Steel Federation. "A manufacturer would need several reels into a suit case and hire a projector for a small sum in almost any town. He can then show the films in his customer's own office, and by supplying a running commentary can give the customer a better idea of the product and its qualities than any amount of talk would do."

These "samples in celluloid" provide, in a few minutes, a visual appeal which could not possibly be achieved by "still" in illustrated catalogues. Films would cost £200 or less, according to length and quality. An additional advantage would be that the customer could see the product in various stages of manufacture, and British work-people at work.

The announcement accompanied the award of the Harry Ginsburg memorial prize to Sidney Smith, Jr., university medical student who developed the method which scientists believe promises to simplify an extremely difficult operation.

Still in its experimental stage and the results not yet final, the method provides a means of sealing ruptured blood vessels simply that university scientists said any competent surgeon could use it.

When a housewife darns a torn sock, she places a "darning egg" in the hole to hold the fabric taut for stitching. With Smith's surgical technique, the two ends of the artery are threaded on to a slender rod of sugar coated with a thin film of oil to support the tissues.

Thus held together, the two ends can be sewn with "over and over" stitches. Different size rods are prepared for different size arteries.

When the clamps have been removed and the blood flow resumes, the sugar rod dissolves in 10 to 15 seconds and the circulation proceeds normally.

More Cruelty

Nazis Charged With Taking Blood From Polish Children

The Paris office of the Polish information service, a department of the exiled Polish government, said the Germans are taking blood from children in occupied Poland for transfusion to German wounded soldiers.

It added that since the beginning of May the drawing of blood occurred in "rapid and brutal" operations which "many under-nourished children have not survived."

Much Easier Now

When modern man gains weight, he has only to loosen his belt or have his suit let out. Knights of old had a real problem in keeping their waistlines down, for armor was costly and allowed for little expansion.

To remove shells easily from hard-boiled eggs, plunge the eggs as soon as they are cooked into cooled water.

Incendiary Powder

Australian Technical Chemist Makes Discovery Of Destructive Element

Dr. J. R. Atchley, a Melbourne technical chemist, has discovered an incendiary powder which he claims is cheaper and far more destructive than a similar preparation reported to be in use by the German air force.

The powder, he says, is fired by oxidation on contact with the air, and by slightly varying its composition the time lag before ignition can be controlled.

The powder can be dropped from planes in light containers, or even in canvas sachets, which burst on hitting the ground. Its destructive force can be increased by releasing the explosive charge over a wide area. The interval between release and ignition can be varied from five seconds to five hours, so that planes can be well clear of the area attacked before the ignited powder is ignited.

The powder will burn under water. One of the more expensive components of the German equivalent is dispensed with, and unlike the German powder, neither fuse nor detonator is needed to fire it. The Royal Australian Air Force is at present testing the invention under service conditions.—Australian Press Bureau.

Thought must be made better, and human life more fruitful, for the divine energy to move it onward and upward.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Purpose is what gives life a meaning.—Parkhurst.

WORK FOR CANADIAN BOTANISTS

There is a great work awaiting Canadian botanists in a search for native grasses, small fruits, medicinal plants, and fibre plants, some of which might prove of the greatest value in plant improvement, as well as for the increase in the knowledge of the Canadian flora.—Dr. J. M. Swaine, Director, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

EFFECT OF VIBRATION

A story of the effect of vibration is told in England. During practice a choir of about 30 voices was asked to sing together the note "A" to the note "G". They did so! The immediate result was the shattering of one of the electric bulbs with which the hall was lit. The cause was given as concentration of vibration.

WEDDINGS

REDISKY—DECECCO

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 8, rev. Father
Dunbar officiating, of Nellie DeCecco, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeCecco, to Bernard Redisky, of Coleman, formerly of Winnipeg.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march. She looked lovely in floor-length gown of white silk net over moire, with a silk net and lace fingerlet veil, held in place by a stiff coronet of lace and seeded pearls.
She wore white elbow-length moire gloves and white satin slippers. She carried a bouquet of sweethearts roses and fern, centered with calla lillies.
Her sister, Miss Mary DeCecco, as bridesmaid, wore a floor-length gown of pale blue with tight bodice and layers of lace inserted in a full skirt.
Her accessories were in pale pink,
and she carried a sheaf of pink gladioli and fern. The groom was attended by Mr. Tony DeCecco.

A wedding breakfast for only immediate friends and relatives followed the ceremony, with Father Dunbar proposing the toast, the groom responding. A reception was held in the evening, with many friends attending.

The bride and groom left on a honeymoon to Great Falls and other U.
S. points. For travelling the bride wore a suit in a pale mustard shade, colored straw sailor hat and olive green accessories. Upon their return, they will take up residence in Turner Valley, where the groom is employed.

Out of town guests were Mr. and
Mrs. Bert Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Milo
Fabro, Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Fabro,
